PROHIBITION MEN REACH ELLENVILLE

Who Confiscated Brewery Stock Are Reinforced But Have Not Served Warrants—No Cuts Seen on Agent Wednesday.

The agents who are now in Ellenville today but the purpose of their visit or how long they intend to remain there has not been announced by anyone having authority.

The agents who are now in Ellenville include the three agents who originally appeared at the Kuhlmann distillery and bottling plant on Wednesday morning and later claimed to have been assaulted by members of the Kuhlmann family.

Chief of Police Nickerson. Other members of the party are said to come from New York and from Washington, and the three agents who were in Ellenville yesterday were all armed and whether they intend to display their arms with the same freedom as they did yesterday is not known.

Up to this afternoon, the three prohibition agents have not been as noisy as the three agents who were there on Wednesday.

The whole arrests promised by the three prohibition agents on their arrival at Newburgh on Wednesday were not materialized, and it is probable that if any arrests are made, it will not be accompanied by the original tactics practiced by the original three, as someone connected with the prohibition department seems to have come to a realization that the prohibition agents' mission is not to frighten the entire population of communities with their guns and bad talk. If arrests are to be made, it is thought probably the persons whom warrants may have been issued will be notified to appear before some Federal judge in New York city to enter a plea, instead of being haled to court in the way the original three agents appear to have planned.

Residents of Ellenville are discussing the way in which one of the original three who claimed to have been in a fight actually received cuts when he reached Newburgh, as Ellenville opinion is unanimous that when the original three started for Newburgh from Ellenville, there were not any marks on any of them to show they had been in a fight of any kind at least with human beings.

IRISH BOUNDARY IS IN DISPUTE

North Ireland Announces It Will Not Accept Mac Neil as Member of Commission to Define It—England Must Step In.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, July 21.—Another Irish crisis threatened today over the boundary question, Ulster refusing to recognize the appointment of Professor MacNeil to the boundary commission.

The action of William T. Cosgrove, Free State premier, in appointing MacNeil a member of the commission, has drawn a statement from Premier Craig of Ulster that he would not recognize the commission as now constituted.

It is felt here that England must straighten out the dispute to avert another deadlock between North and South Ireland.

At the foreign office it was stated that Ulster's refusal to recognize the boundary commission probably would necessitate a tripartite conference to revise the Free State treaty.

PAYROLLS NEVER SO HIGH IN U. S.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, July 21.—Payrolls of factories in the United States have reached record totals, the Federal reserve board said today.

Large gains in the number of workmen employed reported in twenty leading industries, including tobacco, petroleum refining, steel, sawmills and types of building materials.

Heaviest increases in payrolls, the board said, occurred in textile industries, iron and steel industry, in car building and automobile manufacturing. Increases in size of pay check in the steel industry was due largely to recent advances in wages granted by the steel mills.

Substantial increases in employment are reported in tanneries, sugar refineries and car repairing plants. Decreases that were largely seasonal in character were reported in the clothing and food industries.

DEMOCRATS WILL HAVE TWO TICKETS

Chairman Murphy's Committee Meets Monday to Nominate Messrs. Block and Leighton. While Independents Meet Later to Nominate Messrs. Martin and Kullman.

There promises to be lively times in local Democratic circles this year with two sets of candidates in the field for mayor and alderman-at-large, and a chance that Alderman Henry G. Macholdt of the Ninth ward will also enter his name and run on an independent ticket for mayor.

The first shot in the Democratic battle will be fired Monday evening at the city hall when Chairman James J. Murphy's committee meets and announces the following slate:

For Mayor—Morris Block.

For Alderman-at-Large—Robert E. Leighton.

Mr. Block has already served the city as mayor, while Mr. Leighton is a former candidate for the office of alderman-at-large but was defeated by R. C. Dittus, the present holder of the office.

Here's Second Ticket.

The independent members of the Democratic party, however, are not satisfied with Chairman Murphy and his committee picking out the men to receive the nominations, and as a result they will shortly hold a meeting of their own when they will nominate the following ticket:

For Mayor—Alderman William D. Martin of the Twelfth ward.

For Alderman-at-Large—Alderman Peter A. Kullman of the Eighth ward.

To Eliminate Macholdt.

As stated some time ago Chairman Murphy and those who he selected to serve on his nominating committee do not care for Alderman Henry G. Macholdt of the Ninth ward, and have decided to eliminate him from the campaign entirely.

The fact that the alderman from the Ninth ward announced his intention of running for mayor on the Democratic ticket this fall about a year ago has nothing to do with the matter. Chairman Murphy and his committee do not even wish to consider Alderman Macholdt as a candidate for alderman-at-large.

From certain sections there is a well defined rumor that there will shortly be organized a Macholdt for Mayor Club, and that Alderman Macholdt's friends will circulate a petition and obtain the necessary number of signatures so that Alderman Macholdt's name will appear on the primary ballot.

It looks like an old fashioned fight in the Democratic ranks.

London, July 21.—M. Raditch, Croatian leader in the Jugo Slav Parliament, and four deputies have been impeached for treason, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch today from Vienna.

Raditch, a Croatian bookseller, controls a bloc of sixty members in the Jugo Slav parliament and held the balance of power between the Democrats and Radicals. One of his cardinal aims has been the establishment of a Croatian republic within the Jugo Slav monarchy. In this he has been vigorously opposed by Premier Njedin Tachtich, who brought the Serbs, Croats and Slovans to accept the present constitution of Jugo Slavia.

FRANCE GETS MOMENTOUS NOTE AND BRITAIN IS ANXIOUS PENDING REPLY

Draft Follows Baldwin Statement in Commons—Root and House Mentioned as Head of Commission to Say What Germans Can Pay—U. S. Gets Note But Not Memorandum.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, July 21.—The next step in the reparations muddle was again France's today.

England's draft of the note to Germany dispatched yesterday to the allied governments, France, Belgium, Italy, Japan and United States, awaits their reply but only the reply of France is causing any apprehension.

The contents of the note and its accompanying memorandum have been guarded with official silence, and the nations receiving it also have been requested to reveal nothing of its contents.

It is semi-officially stated that the draft follows the plan outlined in Premier Stanley Baldwin's recent speech in the House of Commons. There have been no other official or semi-official disclosures.

The Daily Express this morning says it understands, however, that the memorandum points out that England cannot demand that Germany end passive resistance because the government believes the Ruhr occupation illegal.

"The Speculator" declares the government is desirous that the United States participate in the settlement and anxious for an American to head the proposed commission to inquire into Germany's capacity to pay.

The names of Elihu Root and E. M. House are suggested for the chairmanship of the commission.

The United States received only a copy of the draft note and did not get the accompanying memorandum or covering letter; it was learned at the foreign office.

Official circles were optimistic today over the latest developments in the situation.

Paris, July 21.—The French foreign office received the draft of the note to Germany with its accompanying memorandum at noon today. The contents of note and letter will not be disclosed, it was stated.

FIVE CENT LOAF IS GONE FOREVER

Local Bakers Say That Owing to Increased Cost of the Overhead in Production That the Nickel Loaf of Bread Is Just a Pleasant Memory.

The fact that there has been a decrease in the price of flour has led many to believe that there would be a still further drop in the price of bread in Kingston. According to one of the leading bakers of the city, however, the five cent loaf of bread is but a memory of the past; that is a pound loaf of bread which is the standard size sold here, and which now retails for 8 cents.

The same authority states that bakers are paying from $6.75 to $7. a barrel for flour in car lots. The cost of the flour, however, is but one of the many items that go into the cost of the finished product. Since the World War the overhead charges have been steadily rising. Wages and the maintenance of a delivery service are big items in fixing the price of a loaf of bread.

That there has been a drop in the price of flour is shown by the figures furnished by one of the leading wholesale houses of the city. Today the whole-sale price of flour per barrel is $6.60 and $7.75. On January 2, of this year the prices were $7.20 and $8.60 for the respective brands.

TWO KINGSTONIAN HEARD ON RADIO

On Monday of this week, Miss Margaret Angle, whose stage name is Margaret Atherton, soprano, broadcasted two groups of songs from W. J. Z. Avelian Hall, New York, each group last fifteen minutes. Miss Angle has a fine soprano voice which was trained by Mrs. W. H. Rieser of this city and at the Avon School of Opera, New York city, and many of her friends were more than delighted with her artistic singing as they heard it by radio on Monday. She was accompanied by Mr. Childs.

This afternoon between the hours of 4 and 5 o'clock, from the same station, Frank O. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Anderson of this city, and now singing with the J. C. Hillman Company of New York city, will sing "On the Road to Mandalay," accompanied by the Monte Carlo orchestra. Last Saturday afternoon Mr. Anderson broadcasted very successfully, "Mighty Lak a Rose," accompanied by the same orchestra, from the same station and was delightfully heard by some of his Kingston friends.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MOTHER PERIPATUS

"In an Old Log"

Mother Peripatus was talking to her child. Now a peripatus is a curious creature, as might almost be imagined by her name. With such a name as that she should not really be an ordinary creature.

"I'm something like a worm," she told her child, "and yet I have breathing tubes which make me something like an insect. I have a nice soft body and am of a nice color. I have little legs which make me look something like a centipede, and I like to live in an old log. I'm not a daytime creature. Night time is the time for me and for you, too, my child. I live here, far away in this tropical section of the country. When anyone touches me I squirt forth a funny kind of a juice."

"Not a very polite habit, perhaps, but it is my way." We, as a family, like it where it is warm. We're not fond of cold countries. In fact, we will be found only in warm, warm countries. Now, you are very smart, my child. Soon after you were born you were able to creep about. You knew enough to hide when danger was near, and now you have become so wise and so smart and so independent that you hide under the bark of the log just as the older members of our family do."

"There is something about our coloring which helps to protect us. We are smart in having such ways. But, my child, some people who are here studying the ways of curious animals were talking the other day."

"It seems they were down here before and they took photographs and moving pictures, and they showed these before a great audience when they went up to their own country last year."

"They have been talking about it, and they have said many things which showed how interesting it was to others to see pictures of curious animals and their ways and of the scenery around these parts."

"They showed a picture they had taken of a Mother Peripatus and her young, and everyone it seemed, whispered to each other and said, 'What in the world is a peripatus?'"

"First they showed some pictures of our part of the country here. They showed the tropical scenery. Then they had a moving picture of a Sloth, and of a Cupuchin Monkey swimming along a river which, they explained, was a mile wide and which was haunted by crocodiles and by earl fish which the people had never heard of before. At least many of them had not."

"Then they showed pictures of Mother Sloth and her baby climbing and they were much amused to see the upside down way in which she climbed."

"They showed pictures of leaf cutting ants carrying lots of heavy leaves on a windy day. Then they showed pictures of the great water falls near here and the deep gorge."

"Next they showed pictures of Mr. Northern Elephant Seal, who was supposed to be extinct or no longer in existence. Well they saw they were still in existence. And they showed pictures of animals which had been born up in the Northern room—a Pygmy Hippopotamus, a Yak, Grant Zebra and some young deer."

"They showed pictures of a white porcupine—these white ones were very rare—woodchuck, gray squirrel, pond frog tortoise and rattlesnake. Next they showed pictures of cobra snakes and of a battle between the Indian MongOOSE and a big King Cobra in which the MongOOSE won even though a little creature."

"It seems that King Cobra kills many people in India which makes the MongOOSE so mad that he goes after the Cobra to destroy him. And every mongoose is a brave and helpful creature."

"There were moving pictures shown of wild animals of America, wild moose caribou, mountain sheep, goats and elk, as well as of the mule deer."

"Next they had pictures of sea lions, bears and birds and of a play fight between a keeper and a kangaroo which were made to move so slowly that it was very curious, they said, to see just what actions were made. Oh they laughed at that and at the pictures which went so slowly of the sea lions, showing each little movement they made. But it was the picture of Mother Peripatus and her child which was the really big event of the evening for most of the audience learned about a creature they had never heard of before."

Still one thing remains to furnish the House Beautiful, without which guests and books and flowers only emphasize the fact that the house is not a home. I mean the warm light in the rooms that comes from kind eyes from quick unobtrusive smiles, from gentleness in tones from little unpremeditated courtesies of manner, from habits of thoughtfulness for one another—all that happy illumination which, in the inside of a house corresponds to morning sunlight outside falling on dewy fields. —William Channing Gannett.

SOMETHING TO EAT

Cookies are always an asset in any culinary department. The advantage of cookies over cake is that they do not become dry and stale if kept in airtight cans.

Sift one and one-half cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonsful of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful each of salt and allspice and cloves, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Beat well and drop from a teaspoon onto a buttered sheet. Bake twelve to fifteen minutes in a moderate oven.

Graham Pudding.—Take one-half cupful of molasses, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one quarter of a teaspoonful of cloves, four tablespoonsful of butter, one cupful of chopped raisins, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, one and one-half cupfuls of graham flour, one-half cupful of milk, one egg, one teaspoonful of salt. Melt the butter, add molasses, milk, and egg lightly beaten. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, combine mixtures, adding the raisins which have been steamed. Turn into a buttered mold and steam two and one-half hours. Serve with any desired sauce.

Bran Macaroons.—Take one cupful each of flour and bran, one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of sugar, three-fourths of a cupful of milk, two teaspoonsful of baking powder, one egg and a pinch of salt. Cream the butter and sugar, add the milk and the beaten egg, beat well and drop by spoonfuls onto a buttered tin. Bake ten minutes. This will make about three dozen.

Girls who take a two years' course will be able to become farm managers, insuring them of financial independence. At least 75 per cent of the girls enrolled are daughters of once wealthy families, high officials and army officers. Miss Groiss, of Vienna, is shown handling a plow, while Baroness Puttkamer drives the cow. Baroness Imhoff is chief of the goose battalion, while Miss von Zwehl is the daughter of a German general.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 21, 1923.

According to Timothy Healy, Governor General of the Irish Free State, "Ireland today is an tranquil as Great Britain." And just a little while ago they were killing each other hand over fist. He Valera's announcement that he had quit seems to have been more widely effective than was expected. A pity he did not do it sooner.

Street beggars can grow rich in New York and "get away with it," but it is surprising to hear that in a relatively small community such as Sioux City, Iowa, a supposedly blind beggar on the streets for many years has been identified as a wealthy property owner. Evidently there is no better disguise than a pair of dark glasses.

BIG PLANTATIONS PASSING.

A Memphis correspondent of a New York paper, writing of the continuing movement of negroes from the Southern to the Northern States, says: "The migration holds one blessing for the South. It may bring the culmination of the great plantations. Plans already have been made to divide some of the huge estates. These smaller tracts will be sold to Northern white farmers and will be of such size that they can be worked by a single family. It is believed that this will make the use of negro labor unnecessary, and, once unnecessary, there will be no place for the negro in the South. So what seems to be disaster may prove to be a blessing, may relieve the South of a problem which has been troubling for half a century without solution, and may mean agricultural prosperity to many instead of to a few."

The dividing up of great Southern plantations into smaller tracts is not just now beginning, as the above extract would seem to imply. Such desirable division has been in process for more than half a century, receiving its first and greatest impetus during the troublous years immediately following the war of 1861-5, when the Southern labor market was ruinously disorganized in consequence of political conditions and complications. The sudden release of millions of negroes from slavery and the gift to them of manhood suffrage, together with the disfranchisement of more than enough whites to secure an easy black majority in every community, would by itself have resulted in a seriously disorganized labor market. But the disorder, the unwillingness to work even for wages and the crowding of the towns and villages with idling ex-slaves, was vastly increased and prolonged by the problem of "carpetbaggers" that the Federal government would give "forty acres and a mule" to each and every negro. Basis for such promises was found not only in the Trumbull bill proposing to set aside three million fertile acres for the negroes in the Southern States, but also in General Sherman's order No. 15 setting aside "all the islands south of Charleston and the rice fields along the rivers for thirty miles back from the ocean" and "the country bordering the St. John's river in Florida" for "the use of negroes," each family being settled on a plot of "not more than forty acres of tillable ground."

It was then, when only negroes of mature years could be induced to work and practically all the younger negroes idled while vainly awaiting their "forty acres and a mule"—it was then that the great Southern plantations began rapidly to break up, their parts, in an era of vastly depressed values, selling for a song. This process of division into smaller tracts has been going on ever since, and no doubt it is now receiving new and powerful impetus from the great exodus of negroes.

The Memphis correspondent quoted above is right in believing that the ultimate results will be beneficial to the South, and of course the benefits will be the greater if white farmers able to do the larger part of their own work can be lured from other sections of the United States and from Europe by the fertility of these small acreages of Southern farm lands and by a genial climate permitting more than one crop a year of many products. It is worth while to note, in addition, that the temper of the times and the prevailing spirit of labor are no longer favorable to large landed estates, either in Europe or America, and the indications are that on both sides of the Atlantic small farms will be the rule in the future, with those performing the labor on them for the most part enjoying proprietary rights.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Is the nursery rhyme about ladybugs and their flying away home, just nonsense, or is there any truth in it?
2. Are snakes kept in domestic conditions to catch rats?
3. Are all young birds that take to water, covered with down when they hatch?

Answers in Monday's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. How is it possible for a lizard to grow a new tail if the old one breaks off? Does it grow new bones?

The entire tail does not break off. The tail vertebrae are so formed that they split readily into two sections, and when the tip-end of the tail is yanked off, the break comes at the joining line of one of these split-able vertebrae. When the new tip is grown, the bones do not form, but are replaced by a rod of calcified (stiffened) tissue within the muscle that does very well for a false bony support.

2. Are bayberry candles really made from bayberries?

Those commercially sold are probably ordinary candle wax colored and perfumed by chemistry. But in old times fragrant vegetable wax was actually collected by boiling quantities of the tiny ripe berries of myrica cerifera or myrica carolinensis. The waxy rind melts when boiled and rises to the top of the water. Even in old times the bayberry wax was often combined with tallow.

3. Can any birds or orioles sew in making their nests?

Yes, the so-called tailor-birds found in Africa, Asia and India make ingenious pockets by sewing together a cluster of two or three leaves that are growing in a clump. Into this pocket they build the nest proper. The birds are somewhat similar to warblers in size and general look.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. How is it possible for a lizard to grow a new tail if the old one breaks off? Does it grow new bones?

The entire tail does not break off. The tail vertebrae are so formed that they split readily into two sections, and when the tip-end of the tail is yanked off, the break comes at the joining line of one of these split-able vertebrae. When the new tip is grown, the bones do not form, but are replaced by a rod of calcified (stiffened) tissue within the muscle that does very well for a false bony support.

2. Are bayberry candles really made from bayberries?

Those commercially sold are probably ordinary candle wax colored and perfumed by chemistry. But in old times fragrant vegetable wax was actually collected by boiling quantities of the tiny ripe berries of myrica cerifera or myrica carolinensis. The waxy rind melts when boiled and rises to the top of the water. Even in old times the bayberry wax was often combined with tallow.

3. Can any birds or orioles sew in making their nests?

Yes, the so-called tailor-birds found in Africa, Asia and India make ingenious pockets by sewing together a cluster of two or three leaves that are growing in a clump. Into this pocket they build the nest proper. The birds are somewhat similar to warblers in size and general look.

Marriage Customs of Ukrainians.

In Ukraine there are special seasons set apart for weddings and it is considered bad form for couples to marry at other times. Nor may any young man who wishes to be respectful and observe all the courting courtesies ever ask a young woman to marry him. A girl in an old-fashioned community may have an idea that she is going to be a bride during one of the wedding seasons of the year, but she is not sure until a friend appears to tell her father that her hand is asked in marriage by a certain youth who has such and such advantages and prospects and who would make her a husband. To be quite in form a date is set for a formal acceptance on her part. The marriage broker brings the prospective husband to her home where a feast is being held. The girl does not say anything, but brings out her best embroidered linen towels—the finest in her wedding chest. One she ties around the arm of the broker, one she ties over the shoulder of the man she is willing to marry. This makes the engagement formal and valid and the wedding is usually within the next month.

WHY

Disaster Overwhelmed the European Nations Long Ago

The Mediterranean sea was once a string of small lakes. Its bed was several hundred feet below sea level, in the same fashion that the Caspian and Dead sea basins are still below sea level. This region has been an area of excessive evaporation for the last forty or fifty thousand years, and the waters in it have trouble in maintaining themselves. Not enough rain fell then to keep the Mediterranean basin full, nor does enough fall now to fill it. Were the Strait of Gibraltar and the Suez canal closed.

Some ten thousand years ago, or perhaps less, when the inhabitants of this region were just emerging into civilization, a disaster overwhelmed whole nations, comparable only to the flood in China when the Yellow river changed its mouth. In those days the land below sea level supported many people. No one dreamed that it was under the level of the ocean's waters, for no one had ever traveled as far as Spain to see the Pillars of Hercules. The Strait of Gibraltar was above water then. A small river flowed there, heading among the hills of which the massive rock of Gibraltar is a remnant. It meandered down to the Atlantic in the usual fashion of rivers, all unconcerned with the fact that the land over the ridge behind it was lower than the slope down which it flowed.

The remains of this river are still there, below the waters between Cadex and Tangier. Soundings on the bottom reveal it.

SCIENTIST ALWAYS AT WORK

Why It Is Impossible to Place Any Limit on Discoveries That May Be Made.

Every year adds to our scientific knowledge, yet at the end of each year it seems that there are no epoch-making discoveries yet to be made. A century ago the French mineralogist, Haüy, said electrical discoveries had reached a point where no important steps remained.

Yet electricity was in his infancy and Michael Faraday in his basement room was working out the relationship between electricity and magnetism, which led to the dynamo and the radio.

As late as 1894 a university catalogue contained the statement that future progress in science was to be expected only in working out principles already discovered. In the following year Roentgen discovered the X-rays that led to radium and the electron.

It was thought long ago that all the beasts of the jungle had been discovered and named, yet the akapi was not found until 1900. The scientific discoveries of the Twentieth century have been more numerous than in any previous century and they have been greater.

Why He Didn't Collect Bill.

A working sense of fun is a good thing to possess, for sometimes, if the humor of a situation cannot take the place of cash, there is no compensation at all. A case in point is that of H. D. Traill, an English literature.

One of Traill's earliest journalistic commissions was to write a series of articles in a paper edited by a lady well known years ago as a strong advocate of "women's rights," as the phrase then went, on the anomalies and injustices of the British law relating to woman's property.

The articles were duly written and published, but the remuneration agreed upon was not forthcoming. After repeated but fruitless demands for payment Traill brought suit against the lady, who successfully invoked against her contributor the very law she had engaged him to attack.—New York Herald.

Why Sun Fades Colors.

Some colors fade in sunlight. Why? Sunlight is made up of a band of colors which we can see, ranging from red to violet, and of certain other rays which are invisible to our eyes. Some of these rays, known as "actinic" rays, are those which so often destroy colors. The chemical pigments in dye stuffs are, of course, liable to chemical action, and this action is exercised by the actinic rays, in the same way as they have a chemical action upon the film of a photographic plate. No dyestuff will withstand all chemical actions; the curtaining that will be "fast" to the most glaring light may not be able, for instance, to stand salt. It depends upon the chemical nature of the pigments used by the dyer. If stuff is bought containing pigments chemically subject to the actinic rays, then that pigment will be oxidized, or literally burned up by the light.

A Word on the Cleaning and Care of a Watch

ALMOST any watch will run for months after the last drop of oil in the bearings has disappeared, but it goes without saying that injury will result.

A very small watch must be cleaned, oiled and cared for much oftener than a large one, because in the tiny watches that are worn by women today the oil-cups cannot possibly retain oil for more than six months at a time.

A large watch, with its liberal bearings, has more power, carries more oil, and is not nearly as likely to be disturbed in its action by little flecks of dirt, which easily stop a small watch, and it may be run three times as long. To get at, to oil all the parts of a watch, it must be taken down completely and every one of its many parts thoroughly cleaned and repolished.

A watch is a machine. No matter how delicate, no matter how finely adjusted, it is always a machine.

We are pleased to regulate watches without charge and to examine a watch and advise you whether it needs attention and give full information regarding the extent and cost of repairing, subject to your approval.

THE RESURRECTION OF THE DEAD SOON!

MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE.

For 6,000 years mankind has died upon the earth. Wars, famines and pestilences have taken their toll and continue to do so on an ever increasing scale. Sorrow, weeping and distress prevails.

But, relief is in sight. According to the Bible the resurrection of the dead positively will occur soon, and not only will the dead come forth, but millions now living will never need to die.

PLANE THROUGH FLYING HERE

Motor Trouble Prevented Trip To Glenford Camp and Threatening Weather Saturday Flights—Prizes Will Be Awarded.

The airplane which came here to distribute advertising matter and make deliveries for the Rose-Gorman-Rose store was preparing to leave for the south today, having terminated its engagement here.

The promised flight to the Y. M. C. A. camp near Glenford was not made Friday evening as the aviators were unable to get the motor performing properly and the crowd at the camp, including the Aerograph photographer who was to get a picture of the landing, were disappointed. Messrs. Rose and Gorman of the "Big Store" were among those who awaited its arrival.

This morning the shifting winds and clouds which threatened rain caused the aviators to decide that they would not fly today.

About 100 of the cards with the "lucky numbers" have been turned in to the furniture department of the store and the prizes will be awarded to the three of these who hold the winning numbers, as was promised. Others having the cards may participate in the contest by turning them in before Wednesday next.

SEMI-PRO GAMES
OVER WEEK END

this district some interesting games will be staged over the week end which include the following:

Saturday.
At Stamford-Colonials furnish the attraction.
Tannersville-Poughkeepsie Red
Sox play the home club.
Rhinebeck-Newburgh plays the Astor Club.

Sunday.
At Fair Grounds-Tannersville
plays the Colonials.
Danbury-Schatz Club of Poughkeepsie play the home club.

Poughkeepsie-Kennedy All Stars play the Red Sox two games.
Pine Plains-Stamfordville plays the local team.

Watervliet-The D. and H. Generals will play the Grogans.

will play the Coxsackie team.

Amsterdam-Green Island Kay-
sers will play the R. of C. team.
Saugerties-Kingston Regulars play Saugerties Eagles.

Twist Your Tongue Over This.
Aristophanes invented a word of 75 syllables to describe a dish compounded of fish, flesh and fowl. Mark Twain in his protest against the German language says that the arrays of syllable ending in "Versammlungen" were not words but alphabetical procession.
Now comes boldly forward a Swedish chemist who has given the name "trinipromeraxyleuol" to a disinfectant he has invented.

TANNERSVILLE
HERE TOMORROW

This afternoon at Stamford the Colonial baseball squad will play the club representing that village at Stamford. The Stamford team has been recently strengthened by the addition of a number of players and they are winning at a fast clip. The pitching job will be assigned to either Culliton or Forsythe.
Sunday at the Fair Grounds the Tannersville team, headed by Manager Julius Dolan, will supply the attraction. This is the fourth game of the series, the locals having two wins. Manager Dolan will bring along his best to try and even matters. The game will start at the usual hour, 3:30 o'clock.

Fitzgerald, who umpires behind the bat at the Tannersville diamond, will call out the balls and strikes
Sunday at the Fair Grounds.

Craftsman Expert Cameo Carver.
Cameos were carved on gems by the ancient Greeks with a perfection unattainable until about 130 years ago.
Then James Tassie, a native of Pol-lokshaws, near Glasgow, came to London and, working with extraordinary industry, produced nearly 15,000 imitations of the best of ancient gems, besides cutting portraits of many of his most famous contemporaries on precious stones.
